

Zemědělská a.s. Vysočina Tradition of Cultivation

Zemědělská a.s., Vysočina was founded in 1999 succeeding the Co-operative Farm Vysočina. The company manages about 1500 hectares of land in the cadastral territories of Hlinsko, Srní, Vítanov, Stan, Všeradov, Možděnice, Dřevíkov, Svobodné Hamry, Rváčov and Trhová Kamenice. The majority of the farmed land is located in the Protected Landscape Area (PLA) of Žďárské Vrchy and the PLA of Železné Hory.

In crop production the arable land is used to grow cereal crops, rape, mustard and caraway. However, traditional highland crop is potato. Both table potatoes and seed potatoes are also an important part of our production. Furthermore, fodder maize for silage and clover are produced on our arable land. Meadow areas are used for production of hay and silage which is the main food supply for dairy cows. In livestock production the company focuses on production of milk, poultry meat, incl. turkeys and once a year ducks.

The goal of the company is to stabilize results in each individual production and become competitive in selling the individual products. It is also important for us to retain the cultivated landscape in the foothills in its original biodiversity conditions.

Both table potatoes and seed potatoes can be purchased directly at the premises of the company, that is on working days from Monday to Friday between 7:00 and 15:00. Table potatoes are sold in sacks of 25kg, seed potatoes are sold in the bags of required quantity.

Hlinecko Quality

Potatoes are one of the most important agricultural crops; only wheat, rice and corn are of greater importance for human nutrition. Cultivating potatoes on the PLA Žďárské Vrchy and Železné Hory goes on as a continuation of the long tradition, when in this climatically rough area potatoes have been one of the main food samples for local inhabitants.

Zemědělská a.s. grows potatoes purely from their own seeds and uses environmentally friendly fertilizers. The total area of land where potatoes are grown is about 100 ha annually.
